

Fermilab

SIS Summary

The primary issues I will present for discussion are the following:

- Administrative support for CD from 1991 to the present
- Leadership and core administrative responsibilities
- Group direction and philosophy
- Technology and the implementation of current information tools
- Concerns

This presentation will serve as a catapult for future discussion. An introduction of the group's basic philosophy of shared responsibility rather than individuality will emphasize their ability to adapt successfully to present administrative demands. The groups use of present computer technology and select training knowledge will also support the essential requirement to implement necessary procedures presently in place.

-Emily Pahlavan